

Dear Mr. Luckenbaugh,

Thank you again for agreeing to speak as the keynote at our 2nd annual end of the year LLC celebration banquet. We are very excited about your visit, and in particular, have the chance to hear your life experiences during and after Central. We believe it is important for all of us to hear about how your diverse background may have influenced your professional and personal career. We are impressed that your company, Chameleon Technologies, Inc. has been selected as a "Top Diversity Owned Business," "Top Small Business," and "Top Woman Owned Business in Washington" by DiversityBusiness.com. As students who delight in the mosaic of our backgrounds, it is wonderful to hear from a Central Washington University alumnus who encourages diversity and applies it in the business world of today.

We would like to take a moment and describe in more detail the LLCs APIA House, Students for the Dream, and Casa Latina, and what they are all striving to do here on campus. We are three inclusive Living Learning Communities (LLCs) whose goal is to promote and celebrate diversity through campus and the community in any way possible. Some programs that we have accomplished this year include Students for the Dream's "Bring Your Culture to the Table", where students and faculty were encouraged to bring a dish from their heritage. APIA House put on an elaborate "Parade of Nations: an International Fashion Show", where students from Central Washington dressed up in authentic traditional and contemporary attire representing their own cultures and ethnicities. Casa Latina does various potlucks and study tables to share a part of the Hispanic culture, as well as participates in other programs here on campus.

This year's theme for the banquet is "Unity Through Diversity," which we felt encompasses all of our goals as LLCs. Because we all strive for similar goals, we thought it would be appropriate to celebrate our accomplishments with each other. We believe that there is much we can learn from your insight; we know your story will motivate the students in these LLCs. We know you are a busy individual and so with even greater appreciation, we know you took valuable time off to attend our dinner. If you have any more questions or concerns feel free to contact me. Thank you again and we are looking forward to see you at our special event.

Respectfully yours,
